

Happy Korean Children

The Democratic People's Republic of Korea has factories which exclusively produce school things and uniforms.

The products are supplied to schoolchildren for next to nothing. The state provides the materials for production and salaries for workers.

Children of the DPRK are growing up lively to be the masters of the future as the state supplies them with everything for their study.

Workers of the Mindulle Notebook Factory make efforts to improve the quality notebooks.

Employees of the Pyongyang Bag Factory create new designs.

Workers of the Pyongyang School Uniform Factory hold products show.

Primary school pupils in new uniforms

Schoolchildren are full of delight after receiving new uniforms, shoes and satchels.