Double-faced embroidery "Heralding Spring"

From Jiang Zemin, president of the People's Republic of China (May 2000)

The gift was presented by President Jiang Zemin to Chairman Kim Jong Il who visited China in May 2000.

The Chinese president said that the name of the double-faced embroidery "Heralding Spring" bore the deep meaning that spring had come to Korea.

The embroidery, 200cm long and 100cm wide, is a reproduction of the painting by a famous Chinese painter several thousand years ago.

Oil painting "Two Balinese Girls"

From Megawati Sukarnoputri,
president of the Republic of Indonesia (March 2002)

President Megawati Sukarnoputri visited the DPRK in March 2002 and presented the oil painting to Chairman Kim Jong Il. The painting is 100cm long and 120cm wide.

Wood sculptures "Apsara" and DVDs

From Norodom Sihanouk, king of Cambodia
(July 2004)

The Cambodian king visited the DPRK in July 2004 and presented two wood sculptures and two DVDs to Chairman Kim Jong Il.

The sculptures made of wood of the tree endemic to Cambodia depict celestial dancers, guardians of ancient culture of Cambodia. Apsara is worshipped in Cambodia as the goddess of Khmer culture.

And the DVDs store the songs personally composed by the Cambodian king.

Casket inlaid with mother-of-pearl and silverwork "The Van-mieu"

From Nong Duc Manh, general secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Vietnam (October 2007)

During his visit to the DPRK in October 2007 the Vietnamese general secretary presented these gifts to Chairman Kim Jong Il. The Vietnamese people have long regarded the Van-mieu, the first university of the feudal state of Vietnam and the architectural structure representing the time-honoured history and culture of the nation, as a symbol of national wisdom and resourcefulness. Therefore, they think it the highest honour to present gifts portraying the Van-mieu to the most respected persons.

Lacquered folding screen
“Going up the River at Qingming Festival Time”

From Vice President of the People’s Republic of China and member of the Standing Committee of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China (June 2008)

Xi Jinping, vice president of the PRC and member of the Standing Committee of the Political Bureau of the CC of the CPC, visited the DPRK in June 2008 and presented the lacquered folding screen to Chairman Kim Jong Il.

He paid special attention to selecting the gift and had the traditional Chinese lacquerwork prepared.

The lacquered folding screen inlaid with gold dust, a specialty of Yangzhou in China, depicts the life of the people in Bianjing (present Kaifeng in Henan Province), which was the capital of the Bei Song of China.

Ceramic vase

From party and government delegation of the People's Republic of China (September 2004)

During the visit to the DPRK in September 2004, the Chinese party and government delegation presented the ceramic vase embossed with nine dragons to Chairman Kim Jong Il. In China the dragon has been the symbol of wisdom and courage from ancient times, and nine dragons are considered to be the best.

The ceramic vase which is applied by the method of lacquering, the traditional craftsmanship of Fujian Province boasting a history spanning 300 years, retains the features of three major handicrafts of China—classical beauty of Jiangdezhen ceramics, mystery of Fuzhou eggshell porcelain, and lustre of Beijing Jingtailan pottery.
